GRAFT SKIN ON NEW LENOX MAN

Henry Eggers, who will be 80 in June, and who suffered second and third degree burns at his home in New Lenox a few weeks ago, underwent skin grafting Friday.

Mr. Eggers, who is retired and has been more or less of a cripple most of his life, had his clothing ignited from a grass fire he and his wife were tending at their home. Mrs. Eggers succeeded in extinguishing the fire, but not until he received severe burns.

Removed to Silver Cross hospital the aged man was in surgery five hours Friday when skin was grafted from his hip to ankle on his left leg. He is in a critical condition but holding his own.

Under The Cross Of Malta

Since last week I have learned that some people do read this article, and some of them gave kind remarks, and a few criticized. One phrase in last week's article particularly was pulled apart. That phrase reads as follows: "Those comrades who are joining say they are not a disgruntled group just seeking vengeance." Perhaps those people read some punctuation into the phrase that was not there.

To add to this statement, let me say that some of the comrades who are joining the Amvets are the aggressive sort who have held or are holding office in the VFW post. Please do not try to read any hidden meaning into any of my statements. There is none.

Saturday night, April 21, Wm. Martin Post 725 VFW and Auxiliary held joint installation of officers. Did you notice that nearly all the elective and appointed officers were filled by World War II veterans? The point I wish to convey is that the VFW is not an old men's group. No malice is felt toward the World War I veterans.

Rather to point out that the older veterans have been carrying the ball, but now are giving the ball to the younger men. Let's keep the ball rolling and have a banner year this coming year with more new members and plenty of activity. If we recall the obligation we took on becoming members, and strive to fulfill that obligation, we can and will reach our goals.—Eino L. Saarela, publicity.

Local Young People At Student Council Meeting in Chicago

The Illinois Association of Student Councils held their annual convention in the Congress hotel in Chicago, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. There were 700 delegates present from all high schools in the state, each being allowed three delegates.

Miss Audrey Neithammer of Mokena, a junior at the Joliet Township high school, was one of their delegates and also the campaign manager for the Joliet candidate for state president.

Donna Cowan and Larry Borgo, chaperoned by Miss Lippeck, Student Council sponsor, represented the student council of the Orland Park Community High School.

The general topic of the convention was "The American Way of Life", and all discussions and talks were arranged to follow this theme.

On Friday, general assemblies and group discussions were held. The representatives were divided into groups according to the size of the schools which they represented so that problems related to a particular sized school might be discussed. In the first group the relation between the student council and the student body was discussed by the representatives.

In the second, the relation between the student council and the administration and the faculty was the subject under discussion. Donna and Larry attended these two discussion groups. Miss Lippeck attended a discussion group where the problems of a student council in a small school were discussed.

On Friday evening, a dinner was held for the representatives from six to eight in the Gold room. This was followed by a semi-formal dance from nine to twelve in the Casino room to the music of George Burnett's orchestra. The Evanston High school provided a floor show for the representatives.

Saturday morning was used for general sessions and the election of officers for the association during the 1951-52 school year. This was followed by a panel discussion on the topic of the obligations of a student council in upholding the traditions associated with the American way of life. The moderator for the discussion was Dr. George Ingersoll, Professor of Education at the University of Michigan.

On Saturday afternoon, the results of the morning's elections were announced, and the new officers of the association were inducted. Then the convention was adjourned until the next year.

Both Larry and Donna feel that they had an enjoyable time plus the practical educational experience. Assistant Advisor, Miss Kay Ahlneck gained from attending the convention and meeting many outstanding students from other school systems.

Public Service To Build New Plants Near Lockport

The first two generating units totaling 300,000 kilowatts have been ordered for the new electric generating station to be constructed by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois on the banks of the Chicago Sanitary and Ship Canal between Lockport and Lemont, according to Britton L. Budd, president of the utility. The two units will have a capacity of 150,000 kilowatts each.

The new power station will be built on a 216-acre tract of land recently bought for the purpose. The property lies between Route 66A and the canal. It fronts about one-quarter of a mile along the south side of Romeo road and three-quarters of a mile along the west bank of the canal at a point about 10 miles north of Joliet in Will County.

The new station is strategically located with respect to industrial development in the area, and is part of a post war expansion program started five years ago to meet the continuing rise in the use of electricity by industrial, residential and rural customers in the 11,000 square mile area of northern Illinois served by the company. The rising trend has been further accelerated by the nation's rearmament program.

The station will be the twelfth in the inter-connected Commonwealth Edison-Public Service power system which now has a capacity of 2,800,000 kilowatts. The new Will County facilities, combined with other generating units now either under construction or on order, will bring the system capacity up to 3,732,000 kilowatts by the fall of 1954—more than double that of 20 years ago.

"At present we are making preliminary plans and surveys for the location of the station building, barge docks, coal storage yard, electric switchyard, and other facilities," Mr. Budd said. "It is expected that the station will be completed and the new units in service by the fall of 1954."

The new Will County station site is adequate for the development of a one million kilowatt plant—more than three times the initial capacity to be installed—and the new station will be designed to provide for additional generating units.

"The property is served by the E. J. & E. railroad which has connections with all major Chicago area trunk lines and by the Illinois waterway over which coal can be barged direct to the site."

The population of the company's service area now stands at more than two million, having increased 380,000 in the last 10 years. Mr. Budd pointed out. Within this service area are 534 communities nearly 50,000 farms and more than 1500 industries.

Other major expansions in power capacity undertaken by the company since the end of World War II include a 107,000 kilowatt unit added last year at the Joliet plant, a new 110,000 kilowatt unit now under construction at the Waukegan station and scheduled for completion in the summer of 1952, and a new 60,000 kilowatt unit recently ordered for the Dixon plant and scheduled for service in the spring of 1953.

LETTERS MUST BE SIGNED

There is a hard and fast rule that all letters sent to a newspaper for publication must be signed, for the editor's protection. The writer's name need not be published if so requested, and that information is never divulged.

Last week this newspaper received a letter addressed to the editor without a signature. We would like to publish it and if the writer will see or write the editor giving their name, it can be published next week.

Speaker's Bureau Formed For The Hoover Report

The Cook County committee of the Illinois Citizens for the Hoover Report has recently established a speaker's bureau and has named Stewart Cushman chairman, according to George H. Watkins, Cook county chairman.

Cushman will direct the activities of a large group of volunteer business and professional men in bringing information of the non-partisan Hoover Commission Report to civic, service and fraternal groups throughout the county.

Cushman, whose home is at 310 W. Wilson, Palatine, is associated with Bartholomay and Clarkson, insurance agents. He has an outstanding civic and national record as a public speaker. For two years he was chairman of the speakers bureau of the Community War Fund for Cook, DuPage and Lake counties; served on five Association of Commerce committees; and is active nationally in the Episcopal church.

He is vice-chairman of program and budget for the Episcopal church general convention and is secretary of the standing committee of the diocese of Chicago. Recently he has been in charge of training laymen speakers for the church, conducting intensive week end courses for personnel through out the entire country and Hawaii.

For the Cook County Hoover committee speakers bureau, he has assembled a group of 35 speakers, many of them members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. These speakers have prepared facts about the economy, efficiency and modernization recommendations of the Hoover Commission and will present these facts throughout the county. A twenty-minute sound motion picture, illustrating the Hoover recommendations has also been prepared for showings to interested groups.

Cushman announced that any organization in Cook county desiring to hear the story of the Hoover Commission recommendations for governmental economy, efficiency and streamlining can contact the office of the Illinois Citizens for the Hoover Report at 79 W. Monroe Street, and a speaker and the motion picture will be supplied.

CHURCH DINNER APRIL 29

A dinner, sponsored by St. Anthony's church, Lincoln Estates, Frankfort, will be held at the church, Sunday, April 29 from 12 noon to 5 pm.

The public is invited.

FRANCIS SCHOOL PARTY

The Francis school will hold a card party at the schoolhouse Friday evening, April 27, at 8 p.m.

The public is invited. Proceeds will be used for school improvements.

Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson has designated the above dates as National Rural Mail Box Improvement week. We are grateful to him for calling attention to the public of this great civic project.

The rural mail service is second only to the public schools as an educational factor in our country districts. It is a miniature post office on wheels and offers every service that the city post office has to offer. The rural patron may purchase stamps, money orders, registration of first class mail, insurance of valuable parcels. Send and receive letters and parcel post packages practically from and at his very door, while his town cousin must go to his post office to receive this same service. In return for these services the rural patron should be ready and willing to do his part to help the carriers perform their duties in an easier and more efficient manner.

The rural patron can best show his appreciation for the service rendered by the rural carrier during all kinds of weather, by taking pride in a mail box that meets all departmental regulations, with their supports and approaches conforming to the following rules:

1. Department approved, weather proof mail boxes, large enough to accommodate the volume of patron's mail. Box to have proper signal flag.

2. Box to be firmly attached to a rigid support. For proper height, consult your rural carrier. Makes of cars differ in height.

3. Door to the box should be one that will open and close easily.

4. Box and support to be painted either aluminum or white paint.

5. Patron's name should be plainly displayed on his mail box.

6. Post for the box to be placed on the shoulder of the roadway and box fastened to the post so that it extends over the post allowing the fenders of the carrier's car to clear mail box support (or post).

7. Box should be placed on the right-hand side of the carrier's line of travel so that he will not be required to cross traffic.

8. Approaches to mail boxes to be kept free of ruts, weeds, debris or snow.

9. When there are two or more boxes in a group, they should be in line so that they can be served from the car without dismounting.

10. Especially along national and state high speed highways, place the mail box approximately seven feet from the edge of pavement, permitting carrier to clear traffic, eliminating the danger of accident and injury to the carrier and the traveling public.

It is well to remember that only standard type of mail boxes are approved and original creations designed to be picturesque or unique in any way, are discouraged. Postal laws and regulations state very plainly that the supports on which rural mail boxes are erected "shall not be in the form of edifices or in forms intended to represent figurines or mechanical objects, either grotesque or otherwise." The most attractive mail box on the whole is the standard type, on simple but adequate supports, placed in a spot which is easily accessible to the rural carrier.—Mrs. Glenn Folkers, national secretary, Ladies Auxiliary to the National Rural Letter Carriers' association.

These are the days when men think in terms of great armies, of widespread atomic destruction, of myriad listeners to radio and television programs, of billions in expenditures. Accordingly, it may appear to the average man that everything of importance must be greater, wider, higher, or more expensive than all that surrounds it. But, this is a distortion of the truth, for in God's creation these are

NO LITTLE THINGS
There are no little things in life: The bird beneath a stronger wing is meaningful to feathered folk Who hope to see it fly and sing. The raindrop dashed into the earth Supplies the leaflet in the sky. The grain of sand and chip of stone, Though small and mute, hold temples high. The grass to which the hungry doe Will dash with gay and eager eye Has an importance which exceeds The insignificance of size. For each iota, as each star, Is heir to broad and brilliant fate And those who understand know well That all the things of God are great!

Spring Frills For Packaged Ice Cream

Ice cream is a favorite refreshment no matter what the season, and now that it comes pre-packaged in the sturdy block-shaped cartons which you buy at your grocery store, it is the easiest dessert in the world to serve. Besides, ice cream is a nutritious food and an economical one—especially when you buy the bargain half-gallon which serves 16. For a gay party arrangement, serve the ice cream in paper serving dishes with dolly ruffs pasted on the edges. The centerpiece is a gaily festooned candle. The ribbons lead to little nosegays of spring flowers arranged in nut cups.

Our Constitution Amended by Usurpation

From Congressman N. M. Mason Amending by Executive Interpretation and Usurpation.—Everyone knows that the Constitution of the United States has been amended to limit the length of time any one man can be President. But everyone does not know that the Constitution has also been amended by interpretation and usurpation. This was done when on February 28, 1951, the Executive Department issued a 27-page document entitled "Powers of the President to Send The Armed Forces Outside the United States."

The Constitution says Congress shall have the power to declare war. This recently issued executive document says:

"Use of the congressional power to declare war... has fallen into ABEYANCE because wars are no longer declared in advance. The Constitutional power of the Commander in Chief has been exercised more often because the need for armed international action has grown more acute. Repelling aggression in Korea or Europe cannot wait upon Congressional debate."

Webster's dictionary defines "abeyance" as "suspension." So the foregoing is an outright claim that the Constitutional provision that Congress shall have the power to declare war is now "suspended." In other words, it is an assertion that through "practical necessities" this power of the Congress has been "repealed" by its transfer to one man—the President of the United States.

It is now openly asserted that "repelling aggression in Korea or Europe cannot wait upon congressional debate." This amounts to a claim that aggression by anyone, anywhere, is to be regarded in the same light as a direct attack on American territory so far as the Presidential power is concerned.

There is little doubt that the President has a Constitutional right to use American armed forces instantly to repel an attack on American territory or nationals, without waiting for Congressional approval. It is something vastly different to claim that the President has the right to enlist this Nation in any war, in Europe or Asia, and that it is now necessary for him to do so, without the prior authority of the Congress.

Unless the President is barred from acting on this claim, either by the adoption now of a Congressional restraining resolution or, if necessary, by a Constitutional amendment, we will be permitting the "repeal" of a basic Constitutional amendment, we will be permitting the "repeal" of a basic Constitutional provision by default. And unless this restraint is imposed we can expect more Koreans.

AN EXPLANATION AND A JUSTIFICATION.—Our boys are fighting in Korea in a war neither authorized nor approved by Congress. The writer voted "No" on the Draft U.M.T. Bill because he is opposed to the drafting of more American boys to be sent anywhere and everywhere in the world to fight under a foreign flag in wars ordered by our President and not authorized by Congress. The writer was also opposed to lowering the draft age because no real need for lowering the draft age was ever shown—either in Committee or in the two weeks of debate on the House Floor.

Land of Promise
Lesson for April 29, 1951

A NATION must have a home. Gypsies are not properly called a nation because their only home is where their wagons make a camp. Professors of political science tell us that among other necessities, a nation has to have a definite and defensible territory. But the ancient Israelites did not need a professor to tell them that. Dr. Foreman much. They knew it very well. When they came out of Egypt they could call their clothes and their tents and their stock their own; but nothing else. Even when Moses had given them laws and religion and an army and an organization, they were still not a nation, for they had no land of their own under their feet.

No Welcoming Committee
SO IT was that what those people looked forward to, for forty years, was the "Land of Promise," where Abraham had pitched his tent, where these Israelites' forefathers had worshipped God.

But their ancestors had owned very little of the land. Abraham owned just enough for a burial plot; Jacob owned a tract which, so far as we know, he never occupied. Yet it was a good land, so good that others, long before Abraham, had settled there. It has no unsettled wilderness; it was dotted with high-walled, thickly populated, strongly defended towns. There were no "welcome" signs on the highways. All the cities of Palestine were united by one common hate for the invading Israelites.

Two Centuries of War
SOME of our hymns give a wrong impression of Canaan, the Land of Promise. In some of our hymns this life is compared to the wilderness in which the Israelites lived for forty years, the river Jordan is a symbol of death, and Canaan means heaven ("Canaan's happy shore!").

Well, Canaan was not a happy shore. It was a bloody battlefield for centuries. For the Israelites did not occupy the land all at once. Their fight was not won right away, it was not won in a generation. We do not know for certain the date of Joshua, but a date favored by many scholars is in the 13th century before Christ. The "Land of Promise" was not fully and securely in the Israelites' hands until the tenth century. The whole story, or such parts of it as we find in the books of Joshua and Judges, shows that it was a long struggle, a weary succession of more or less continual wars, climaxed in the final conquests of the fighting king David.

Some Victories are Deserved
DURING those wars, many cruelties were practiced by both sides. If there had been a United Nations at that time, they would certainly have condemned the Israelites for aggression and for war crimes besides.

We may as well admit that the Israelites did not act in line with the Sermon on the Mount. How could they? They had never heard of it. The fact remains that if you, an impartial, invisible observer, had looked down from the sky at all the long struggle the Israelites had to put up to win a homeland, and if you had been asked: Which will win, the Israelites or the Canaanites? There were times when you would hardly have dared to make a prediction.

But if you had been asked: Which side deserves to win? You would surely have said, The Israelites.

God Saw the Future
ANY one who could have foreseen the future both of Israel and the tribes with whom they fought for centuries, would certainly have hoped for Israel's victory.

Comparing all that Israel would mean to mankind, directly and indirectly, with all that would come from their enemies, you would have voted for the Israelites without hesitation. If for no other reason, the Israelites deserved to win because of their religion.

If you can imagine what might have been the sinister results if Israel had been destroyed, and with them all knowledge of the one and holy God, you can see how God could not afford to let His people lose.

Local Man Offers Soil Test Service

Soil testing is putting farming on a business basis and many farmers are taking advantage by having their soil tested.

With the scarcity of fertilizers of various kinds, plus the fact that seeds are quite high, many farmers feel that they cannot afford to seed legumes and grasses, or any crop, for that matter, without knowing in advance whether or not they are likely to get a good stand.

Hundreds of soil samples have started to come into the soil testing lab.

Complete soil testing, including limestone, phosphate, and potash, costs only 35c per sample, or on an average, approximately 10c per acre, since one sample is taken for about every 3 1/2 acres.

For farmers who do not have time to pick up their own samples, a pick-up service is available.

Those who desire this service should leave their names at the Farm Bureau office or with William Beckman, phone Frankfort 2614.

The cost of the pick-up service is 8c per acre, with a minimum charge of $5.00.

This means that even with the pick-up service, the cost per acre only amounts to around 18c to 20c per acre. One pound of seed saved will almost pay for the cost of testing.

Laboratory results show that eight farmers out of ten apply the wrong amounts when they guess and don't test ahead of time.

Why throw away money uselessly when it's so easy to find out the right answer?

The laboratory will do no good unless it's kept operating at full capacity. It only helps those who make use of this valuable service.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

You've Got To Hand It To Sandy

Sandy Johnson's wife "Tiny" suddenly asks him at breakfast the other morning "Why don't you build me some bluebird houses?"

"What for?" asks Sandy. "Why for bluebirds, of course" says Tiny. "We always had 'em at home when I was a girl. May sound silly—but I sorta miss 'em."

Well, I know how busy Sandy's been lately and the thought of taking time out to build birdhouses could have made a lot of men blow their top. But not Sandy. He says, "No, Tiny. It doesn't sound silly. I think it's a wonderful idea—we're going to have bluebirds—and I'm starting on some birdhouses tonight."

From where I sit, we could do with more understanding people like Sandy—and Tiny, too. He respects her likings, and she respects his. He likes a temperate glass of beer now and then—and although Tiny sticks to coffee, whatever Sandy likes is O.K. with her. They live and let live—and that's why they live so happily.
